

'The Holocaust for Dummies'

By John Tiffany

Everyone “knows” 6 million Jews were killed by the Germans during World War II. However, there are a number of problems with this conventional wisdom.

In 1939, there were officially nearly 15,700,000 Jews in the world (the American Jewish Committee cites a figure of 15,688,259). After World War II, the number had risen to over 18 million Jews (the Jewish-owned New York Times for Feb. 22, 1948 uses a figure of 18,700,000). What this means is that of the 15,700,000 original Jews on the planet, 6 million were allegedly gassed, leaving only some 9 million-plus Jews on Earth. However, the world Jewish population somehow doubled to over 18 million in less than nine years—an amazing feat.

From the beginning of Holocaustian mythology, there was always the holy “6 million,” of whom 4 million were allegedly gassed at Auschwitz. Then, in 1990, it was discovered that only 1.5 million were gassed at Auschwitz, at most—2.5 million less. Yet, in spite of mathematics, the sacred 6 million figure remained unchallenged by the establishment.

During this timeframe, the director of the Auschwitz State Museum, Dr. Franciszek Piper, announced that the so-called gas chamber there had been fabricated by the Soviets after the war (as a propaganda device to keep the world focused on the evils of National Socialist Germany while the Reds continued to consume as much of Europe as they could). Dr. Piper’s statement is on videotape.

But there is more: The International Red Cross (IRC), formally and officially, reported that less than 300,000 internees of all nationalities in the German camps died of all causes, including old age. (When the Red Cross interviewed thousands of freed camp inmates at the end of the war, asking whether they had witnessed alleged “gasings,” the response was universally negative. According to IRC document No. 9925, June 1946: “The detainees themselves have not spoken of them.”)

Of these 300,000 internees, barely more than half were Jews. Most of these died in several severe typhoid epidemics caused by wartime conditions, which claimed many lives throughout Germany—including those of doctors, nurses and camp administrative personnel.

These deaths were too much for the German authorities. On Dec. 8, 1942, Heinrich Himmler, chief commandant of all detention facilities, issued an order stating categorically: “The death rate in the camps must be reduced, at all costs.”

In all of German-occupied Europe there were 2.4 million Jews. After the war, 3.8 million Jews claimed “survivor” benefits from the German government.

It was a miracle. According to The New York Times of Sunday, Jan. 4, 1987, alleged “Holocaust” survivor Elie Wiesel recalled “the day the Soviets arrived at Auschwitz.” However, in a speech to the National Press Club in Washington D.C., reported by the Jewish Telegraph Agency on April 11, 1983, he had a different recollection. (In his book Legend of Our Time, New York, 1982, Wiesel explained: “Things are not that simple, Rabbi. Some events do take place but are not true; others are [true]—although they never occurred.”) Wiesel noted that he was “one of the survivors liberated at Dachau by the U.S. Army” on April 15, 1945—and thus became the only prisoner of war to hold the distinction of being liberated from two different camps in World War II.

Not to be outdone by Wiesel, famous “Nazi-hunter” Simon Wiesenthal died serenely at age 96, knowing that, according to BBC News, he had personally survived no fewer than 12 National Socialist “death camps.”

In 1948, a story appeared about a hapless Jewish girl who was supposedly done in by the National Socialists (she actually died of typhus). The original, supposedly her “diary,” was written in part with a ballpoint pen, an invention that did not appear in the world until after the war. It was published as a book called The Diary of Anne Frank. This highly profitable best-seller, which has been used to promote the Holocaust myth and the state of Israel, remains highly controversial to this day.

So where did this 6 million figure come from? For that, we must go back to one Ilya Ehrenburg, chief Soviet propagandist during World War II, who later died in Israel. It was Ehrenburg who first coined the mystic number for World War II, on Dec. 22, 1944, long before tens of thousands of Jewish internees in German camps, given the choice of staying to be “liberated” by the Communists or fleeing west with their German captors, did not hesitate to choose the latter option.

The monstrous lies of the psychopath Ehrenburg succeeded in creating a climate of rabid, anti-German hate, which led to the death of millions. Here is a typical example of the genocidal daily fare, taken from an October, 1944 leaflet to the Red Army: “Kill! Nothing in Germany is guiltless, neither the living nor the yet unborn.

In addition, it is thanks to the “hoax-a-co$t” lies that the warlike “state” of Israel has collected billions of dollars and property from hopeless natives of Palestine and from taxpayers of Germany, the United States and other bamboozled nations. ★
